THE FRANCHISE LAW.

The following is the law of Congress now in force.

An Act to regulate the elective franchise in the Territories of the United States.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

That from and after the passage of this act there shall be no denial of the elective franchise in any of the Territories of the United States, now or hereafter to be organized, to any citizen thereof, on account of race, color or previous condition of servitude; and all acts or parts of acts, either of Congress or the Legislative Assemblies of said Territories, inconsistent with the provisions of this act, are hereby declared null and void.

FEMALE SUFFRAGE.—The following important document appears in Punch:

The Executive Council and Fashionable Association for the Vindication of Feminine Rights to Enlightened but Enslaved Enchantresses of England—Greetings!

LADIES, NON-ELECTORS!—It has been asserted by timid men, both in place and out of place, that you are not to be trusted with that sweet thing in politics—the suffrage. Mark those words, "not to be trusted," and inscribe them on your work-box cushions in pins with a peculiar point.

The aspirations of beauty for electoral privileges are natural and noble. Breathe soft, ye winds, and waft a sigh from Lydia to the poll!

Calumny whispers that you are too accessible to flattery—that a handsome candidate would certainly be carried by a show of hands in primrose gloves (sixes); that a knowledge of figures (not arithmetical) and a willingness to admire and praise them would supercede all other qualifications.

Let such discreditable views be at once dissolved and let Pall Mall have ocular demonstration of your Spartan severity and scorn. Avoid agitation as you would a young man. Exhibit no chignons, but let your demeanor be distinguished by a lofty, dignified, and independent air.

Listen not to sophists, who tell you that beauty was born to be honored and adored—nor weep, if to secure a vote you lose a votary.

By order of the council.
